

ENERGY → TRANSFER → CHAIN

In class, we've learned that while energy cannot be created, it can be transferred from system to system. Using that knowledge, create an energy transfer chain for an event or action that occurred in your life this week. Keep in mind that, for each step of the chain, you are trying to determine where the energy required to do the work came from. Note that Energy Chains can always be traced back to the sun.

If your chain has more or less steps than displayed here, make the necessary adjustments on the back of this page.
